I only recently learned of Sherry's death. She was a mighty and decent person who faced her many medical challenges with courage and unflinching hope. I never heard her complain. Her focus was on being able to give to her family, students, and profession. She was an inspiration to me and the world seems diminished without her. My sincere sympathy and prayers are sent to Dennis and her girls and parents.

I am so saddened to hear about Dr. Koshman. She was my mentor and I, her research assistant while in graduate school at University of Pitt. She had a wonderful spirit and a great heart and was so incredibly understanding. She was an excellent educator because she listened and connected with her students. The world lost a wonderful soul but the universe gained an angel. My deepest condolences to Dr. Koshman's parents, husband, children, extended family, friends and colleagues. I pray that over time, your loss gets less difficult to bare.

My thoughts and prayers to you and the girls. Sherry was a lovely person on the inside and out. Sherry was passionate about everything that life had to offer -- but most of all -- she was passionate about her friends and family. Over... the last 10 yrs or so, Sherry always made time for a visit whenever she was in Sask, and I can tell you with certaintythat you and the girls were the love of her life.

Dr. Koshman was a wonderful professor. She could tell a joke with such a straight face that the entire class would have to exchange looks, like "did I just hear that?" It made us all pay attention, and cemented her as a teacher who didn't need to take it all too seriously. Her legacy will live on in all of our hearts and in the careers of the many librarians she touched.
